	Plenary session «Public administration in the era of digitalization: the world and Russia» An effective system of public administration. The development of methods of public participation, the so-called "direct democracy" will help to improve the atmosphere of trust in society, as well as ensure the development of social and cultural relations in society. Direct democracy also has a particular importance in the era of digitalization, as technology allows citizens to become more fully involved in the process of initiating, making, executing, and controlling managerial decisions. Despite the accelerated digitalization of public administration, there is no clear opinion in scientific discussions about the positive affect on the expectations of citizens regarding the management system and government institutions. The current crisis is a test of the stress resistance of the public management system at all levels of government. If public administration ensures trust of society, then the road to sustainable development is open. The Forum will also discuss issues related to the green economy, technological independence, and digital transformation of management systems.

Distrust is born as a result of a lack of understanding of the organization and work of complex management structures. This is a modern black box. Another source of distrust is the election procedure itself. Citizens often have questions about its transparency. At the same time, the authorities in Russia and around the world are initiating important projects to increase the trust of citizens through their involvement in governance. Questions for discussion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What does sociology say about the perception of public authorities by</li> </ul>

A high level of trust is one of the most important resources for the development of society, an increase in trust by 10% gives the economy growth of about half a percent. In countries with a high level of confidence, the so-called happiness index is much higher. The quality of the urban environment, in addition to socio-economic indicators of development, is also determined by the attitude of people to their city and trust in the executive power. Trust is most directly related to public administration and politics: the more people trust, the more effective way to common goals. Here we are talking about defining and achieving goals. If a person feels that his interests are represented at some level of power, he will trust. Today, the digital world expands our capabilities and changes the functioning of trust in social and economic life - the radius of trust is significantly expanding. Questions for discussion: <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. society and power structures, as well as individual holders of power, is an actual topic of historical research in Russia. Within the framework of the roundtable it is expected to discuss a wide range of issues in a wide chronological range, covering the main periods of the country's history.

The roundtable is held in partnership with the Archive Committee of St. Petersburg.

Within the framework of the roundtable, a presentation of the scientific project «Itinerarium of power. The movements of the rulers of Russia and Western Europe in the political culture of the XVI-early XVII centuries» will be held.

Questions for discussion:

- Itinerarium of power as a matter of trust: Russian-French intersections in the Middle Ages
- The phenomenon of trust in the spiritual letters of the Grand Dukes of Moscow in the XV century.
- St. Cassian of Jerusalem and his canonization under Tsar Mikhail Romanov: trust in spiritual authorities
- The Imperial Power and Russian Society in the XVIII century: Problem of Gaining Trust
- Russian charity as a factor of trust between society and the state in the XIX century.
- The phenomenon of distrust in church-state relations of the Russian Empire in the 1860s-1870s. The example of the Russian Ecclesiastical Mission in Jerusalem.
- «The people have a positive attitude to medicine...» (medical inspectors in the formation of medical and sanitary affairs in the provinces of pre-revolutionary Russia)
- Problems of managing the Leningrad Energy Complex in the post-war period
- The problem of trust in the responses of Soviet society to the reform activities of N. S. Khrushchev.

Panel discussion «Project office as a tool for achieving national development goals»

Topical issues:
 The current challenges of national projects implementation require the growth of competencies, understanding and competent use of the world's best practices in the field of project management in state and local government bodies. Successful realization of project portfolios requires well-coordinated work of a large number of teams. Project offices are effective bodies that ensure the coordinated work of project teams to achieve the goals set by the country's leadership.

Questions for discussion:

- Roles and functions of project offices in project management
- Typical mistakes during the construction of project offices
- Options for using project offices for achieving goals
- Key competencies and expertise required for a successful project office manager
- How to measure the usefulness of project offices' activities

Panel discussion «Public administration transformation in the context of sustainable development: institutions, trust, digitalization»

Topical issues:

Sustainable development is related to:

- ✓ the harmonization of relations between man and nature;
- ✓ with the priority of the welfare of the society;
- ✓ with environmental protection.

Solving the problem of economic growth and a whole range of issues in the field of education, health, social protection and employment, as well as combating climate change, is impossible without effective public administration that allows to provide the progressive development of modern society.

Questions for discussion:

- ✓ Is modern public administration a productive condition for sustainable development? What is the most productive model of public administration?
- ✓ Modern political and administrative transformations are influenced by two factors: digitalization and civic engagement. How do these two factors of administrative changes relate?
- ✓ Do digital technologies contribute to increasing the level of trust of citizens in public authorities? Or do they solve other problems of administrative changes?
- ✓ Do digital technologies only increase the efficiency of public administration, or do they transform its entire system? What is the transformational potential of digital technologies?
- ✓ Do digital technologies create the necessary balance of fairness, trust and inclusiveness in public administration?
- ✓ The correlation between the openness of political decision-making and the public's trust in the authorities.
